WIND JAMMERS, NOT

Needed by the American Society of Equity--Until We, Through Thinking, Learn To

REASON AND REASON ACCURATELY OUR EFFORTS

In the Greatly-Needed Revolution Will be Fruitless--This Was Written and Printed for You, Mr. Reader.

FROM THOUGHT THINGS. JOHN BUTLER, EDITOR.

Mental power is the result of organized thinking. Mere memorizing of what others have done is not organized thinking. Organized thinking comes when the individual sets himself a definite task and then determines and applies the ways and means necessary for the accomplishment of that task.

A. S. of E. work calls for just the organized thinking needed for the practical purposes of life. It is a mental activity out of which grows skill in doing, and skill in doing is one of the chief purposes of A. S. of E. education.

If the purpose of the A. S. of E. is to secure equity and fair dealing in all the business relations of life, the purpose brings us face to face with the fact that we must revolutionize the present order of things. We must admit that there are few, if any, relations of life in which equity and fair dealing obtain. To change those few to many, to all the relations of life, can not be done unless by organized thinking and, therefore, the acquisition of the great skill it will require to make such great changes.

Until we, through thinking, learn to reason and reason accurately concerning industrial phenomena and the immorality of selfishness, our efforts in the greatly-needed revolution will be fruitless.

What we need in the A. S. of E. are not vociferators, wind jammers, bubble blowers, or gallery stormers, but thinkers!

We don't believe any one who has read this say will disagree with what has been written, but we fear the majority of them will think it was written for some one else.

This was written and printed for YOU Mr. Reader. Do you think? Do you organize your thoughts and get them into working order? If you do, 'tis well; if you don't, begin to educate yourself to do so, for you'll not amount to much for yourself nor any one else till you do. Tobacco Tidings.

After Defendants In Night Rider Suits.

United States Deputy Marshal Elwood Neel left Friday for the counties of Lyon, Caldwell and Crittenden to serve papers on defendants in the night rider damage suits in the United States court. The principal defendants in the Henry Bennett case have been served, but in the other three cases a large number of defendants have not been found.

Deputy Neel will disguise himself and go horseback this time, starting on his trips before daylight. He has engaged a fine saddle horse at Princeton. Paducah News Democrat.

EX-SENATOR DEBOE

Tipped as Successor to Combs--May Become Minister to Peru or Brazil--Has Good Chance of Appointment.

Louisville, Ky., April 1.--The word is now being passed among Republicans that former United States Senator W. J. Deboe has a good chance of appointment as minister to Peru or Brazil.

Of course, if he should land, Leslie Combs will have to pack up his clothes and come home. Mr. Combs' return to Kentucky to make a berth for Mr. Deboe will make cold chills run up and down the backs of the anti-Bradley men in the state.

Reports relative to Mr. Deboe may not be authentic, but a number of prominent Republicans are discussing them. However that may be, it is known that Mr. Combs will have to work a miracle to retain his place as minister to Peru.

It is practically certain that Combs will be succeeded by a Kentuckian, and it is not unreasonable to figure that Mr. Deboe will have a good chance. There are doubtless many senators who would like to see Deboe given recognition.

Caldwell County Notes.

(From PRINCETON LEADER.)

Judge J. F. Gordon, of Madisonville, was in the city Wednesday, enroute home from Mariou where he had been attending Court for the past ten days.

Judge T. J. Nunn, of the Appellate Court, was in our city Wednesday a few hours on his way to Marion, his former home.

Sheriff Flannery, of Marion, passed through the city Wednesday for the Eddyville Penitentiary with Ernest Slayden, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Crittenden circuit court last week for the murder of his father-in-law, James P. Sallenger, several months ago.

Wednesday afternoon at the City Hotel Mr. J. W. George and Mrs. Clyde Worth were united in marriage, the ceremony being pronounced by Rev. J. W. Ellington, of Portageville, Mo., the father of the bride. The newly wedded couple are both residents of Crittenden county, and left soon after the ceremony for Hardesty, their future home. The groom is a young miner and while this is his first venture upon the matrimonial sea, it is the third for the bride, who is only twenty-two years of age.

The contract between the Illinois Central and the various mine companies in this section of the State covering the furnishing of coal for engines expired at midnight, March 31. This will no doubt cause most of the mines in the territory to close down until new basis of prices is decided upon by the company and the coal operators. These people will have a meeting within the next ten days for the purpose of renewing these contracts.

We will offer at public sale, at the Court House door in Princeton, Ky., Monday, April 19, between the hours of 10 and 12 a. m., the church building and adjacent lots formerly owned by the First Presbyterian church, situated on North Jefferson street one and a half blocks north of the public square in Princeton, Ky. Terms and conditions made known on day of sale.

Celebration.

On March 29th, 1909, H. B. Stembbridge and J. A. Stembbridge celebrated their birthdays. H. B. Stembbridge being seventy-four years old and J. A. Stembbridge being thirty-three. He had a dinner prepared and a good many of the neighbors and two of the children were present, and at 12 o'clock all partook of the dinner which was composed of the good things that nature has by the help of man provided to eat. All enjoyed a good time.

Uncle Henry, as he was called, is the father of twelve children and eleven are living and grown. In politics, he is a staunch Democrat, his religious principles is a Primitive Baptist, he is a kind and a good neighbor, and a kind up-right man, and the wish of one all is that he may live to celebrate several birthdays yet if it is according to the will of God who directs all things for our good. BULLETIN ON FLOURSPAR

By F. Julius Fohs--Comprehensive Work Issued by Kentucky Geological Survey.

Lexington, Ky., April 5.--The Kentucky Geological Survey, Charles J. Norwood, director, has just issued Bulletin No. 9, a voluminous treatise on the "Flourspars Deposits of Kentucky," which is the most complete publication on this mineral ever gotten out in the United States. It is by Assistant Director F. Julius Fohs, and is replete with data relating to the general occurrence of flourspar, its technology, etc. Necessarily the bulletin deals chiefly with the deposits in the western end of the State. The bulletin says the deposits of flourspar Central Kentucky have received less attention from prospectors than they may derive. In fact, it seems not improbable that systematic explorations of those rocks that lie below the limestone will develop flourspar deposits of importance. It is also intended to work a further study of the barytes deposits of that part of the State.

GOOD OPINIONS WELL STATED.

Henderson, Ky., March 20, 1909.

Editor Tobacco Tiding: Dear Sir--I am in receipt of a letter from a most ardent supporter of the America Society of Equity, one who believes in the efficiency of the A. S. of E. to protect the farming industry. Asking an opinion in one breath, and advocating a most vigorous policy in the next, he says: "I'm in favor of an A. S. of E. pool this year, and for the succeeding years. I'm in favor of separating the sheep from the goats. I'm in favor of a real 'square deal.' I would say that no one may have the privilege of pooling his tobacco who is not man enough to pay the same costs his fellows pay. All of the officers of the A. S. of E. that I have talked too, think that the A. S. of E. Should not play second fiddle to any so-called auxiliary. Thinking so, I hold they should think out loud."

Now, I admire this gentleman's earnestness as well as his fighting pacificity, I believe you will, but at the same time I a little doubtful as to the expediency of such strenuous action. I think all of successful tobacco pools in Kentucky have been A. S. of E. pools. It was the A. S. of E. that taught us how to pool. It was the A. S. of E. that organized the several tobacco associations and put them in working condition. It is the plan of the A. S. of E. that each type, or rather the growers of each type, should manage their own affairs; that is, the details.

The A. S. of E. was big enough and broad enough to consent that those not members of the A. S. of E. might become members of the tobacco associations by pooling. But it was contemplated that the several tobacco associations would meet together at least annually around the A. S. of E. hearthstone, and there take counsel, the one with the other, for mutual interest and the general welfare. It was also contemplated that those pooling would assuredly come up like men and join the A. S. of E. after being made beneficiaries of its effective and practicability. Much can be said, pro and con, as to the foresight of those who shaped that policy. Personally, I think it was the best that could have been done at the time, and has hastened the time of demonstrating the efficiency of the A. S. of E. and brought blessings to thousands who could have received them through no other source. The tobacco associations, however, have been tempting fields for those who have a greater regard for self-interest than public weal; consequently, organization has not been fostered and pushed as it should have been. There has been too much of the glamor of hero worship, and not sufficient regard or appreciation of the real power that was holding the trust at arm's length, viz: the number pooling and their cohesiveness.

Growers, I think, are realizing that more and more, and are looking to the A. S. of E. as the proper fold, and are getting in at a rate that will include all the tobacco growers in the state before the 1909 crop is housed. Wherefore I think there is little doubt of the 1909 pool being an A. S. of E. pool in its broadest sense. It's my opinion that the opponents

SCREAMED IN TERROR

As Flames Entered the Cell Windows--Military Prison at Leavesworth Burns But Inmates are Saved.

Leavenworth, Kan., April 5.--The military prison at Leavesworth was destroyed by fire late tonight. The prisoners were removed from the cell houses under guard of United States troops and confined in stockade. None of the prisoners escaped, so far as a hasty resume of the situation after midnight showed, but this may not be definitely known until daylight.

Owing to the low water pressure the fire department at the fort was almost useless. The fire was fought by the soldiers who were ordered out of their quarters, and those who were on leave in the city were at once called back to the post.

Two soldiers were injured while fighting the flames, but none of the prisoners were hurt in any way.

Much excitement attended the removal of the prisoners, many of whom are desperate characters. It was feared they would make an organized break for safety.

The fire broke out about 10 o'clock in the tailor shop and it was soon seen that the building was doomed. A great outcry at once broke out in the prison, the convicts fearing they would be burned to death. They battered on the doors of their cells as the light of the fire streamed through the windows. Many screamed in terror, as the authorities for a moment refused to remove them. All the soldiers that could be spared from the ranks of the fire fighters were detailed as guards and then the delivery of prisoners began.

WOOL GROWERS TO MEET APRIL 15, 1909.

State Headquarter, Kentucky State Union A. S. of E. Calhoun, Ky., March 24.--To all members of the above named society in Kentucky who are interested in the production of wool:

Please take notice that in accord with a resolution adopted at the late state convention held at Madisonville on January 14-15 it has become our duty to call a convention for the purpose of organizing a Wool-Growers department of the American Society in Kentucky, said convention to be composed of delegate selected from the several county unions of the state, and in counties having no county organization, locals may send delegates, number of delegates, however, to be on same basis as is provided for the convention, A. S. of E.

By authority vested in us as outlined above, we hereby call said convention to meet in Elizabethtown, Hardin county, on Thursday, April 15, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of organizing such wool growers department, and for the transacting of such business as pertains to the full purposes as are set forth in the foregoing. Respt.

J. C. CANTRILL, President, S. B. ROBERTSON, Sec'y.

Kentucky State Union A. S. of E. At the above named time and place, the state union of the A. S. of E. are called to meet for the transaction of important business, pertaining to the organization work, and other matters that may come before the board at that time. J. C. CANTRILL, Pres. S. B. ROBERTSON, Sec'y. Kentucky State Union A. S. of E.

PRESBYTERIAN UNION IS GIVEN A KNOCKOUT.

Nashville, Tenn., April 3.--The Cumberland Presbyterian Church in Tennessee this afternoon won the noted church case with which the Tennessee Supreme Court has been wrestling for two years. The Supreme Court, in an opinion of ninety-one pages, delivered by Justice M. M. Nell, holds that the steps sought to be taken by a portion of the Cumberland Presbyterian church in uniting with the Presbyterian church U. S. A. were not effective.

It was held that the Cumberland church still exists, and that its members still retain its creed, doctrines, etc. It was held that unionists had allied themselves with another different church and doctrines.

The Cumberland church are given the church property, and the unionists are adjudged not to have a right or title to it. Their bill, in which they sued to recover church property in Fayetteville Tennessee, is dismissed with cost.

FISCAL COURT

Met Tuesday at the Court House--Entire Board of Magistrate Was Present--Many claims Allowed.

The Crittenden county fiscal court and court of claims met Tuesday, the entire board of magistrates being present--Esquires Hodges, Postleweight, Beard, Phillips, Marks, Yandell, James and LaRue.

One of the most important questions which came before the board was that of the stock law, a petition having been presented by D. A. Lowery and 100 others asking for a vote of the people on the subject. The board by a vote of six to two decided to let the people vote on it at the next general election.

The Dun Springs bridge and several other important matters, besides claims of all kinds, also engaged the board's attention.

The session held over to Wednesday, at which time it was thought all business could be transacted.

OLLIE JAMES RECEIVES STORM OF APPLAUSE

And Business of House Suspended For Some Minutes, While Many Members Including

REPUBLICANS CROWDED HIM TO CONGRATULATE

Him Upon His Great Efforts When he Concluded, what Was Said to Be The Best Speech on the Payne Tariff Bill.

'ROASTED' PROTECTION GIVEN SUGAR AND COFFEE TRUST.

Washington, April 3.--"There is loot enough in it for us all," was the conclusion of Ollie James' speech on the Payne bill in the House today, which created a greater uproar of applause among the Democrats than any tariff speech delivered this session. Mr. James spoke about fifty minutes.

From the start he attacked the inconsistencies and injustices of the pending bill and his conclusion was a climax of denunciation which fairly swept the minority members from their feet. He ridiculed the agriculture schedules and "roasted" the protection given the sugar and tobacco trust.

He received a storm of applause when he concluded and the business of the House was practically suspended for some minutes, while many members, including several Republicans, crowded about him to congratulate him upon his efforts.

What probably will be the last week of general debate on the Payne tariff bill was begun in the house today. The session convened at 10 o'clock with every prospect of a busy day of speech making.

Declaring that the Payne bill "goes one step further in the pillaging of humanity," Mr. James asked what is "a reasonable profit" that the Republicans claim the measure would allow? Who shall decide? He asked "shall it be left to Andrew Carnegie?"

"Picked by a conscience that has allowed him to loot for many years, Mr. Carnegie," he said, "commenced to establish in the various cities and towns of the country libraries, where hungry, ragged men may read of feast they could not attend, and of comforts
